JSD's Construction Management group provides project administration, construction observation, erosion control and permit monitoring, and material testing services for public and private construction projects. JSD also provides construction staking, material and shop drawing review, and utility and local agency coordination. JSD has developed staff with strong communication skills and offers a proactive approach to meeting and working with property owners, transit authority, emergency services, municipalities, and utility representatives.

The Construction Management group is responsible for pre-construction meetings, public relations, daily reporting, detailed progress records, pay estimates, material testing, quality assurance, record drawings, computation of final quantities, and final project approval.
